A Few Words About The Future

There is no experience of the past which affords a rule to be followed under the conditions prevailing now. However, there is ample indication that demand for florist products will far exceed the supply and if the future may be gauged by the situation prevailing this spring it is going to be advisable for the florist who can to produce as much in his own establishment as possible. Seed items are not in any surplus now and there is a grave likelihood of real shortage this coming season. far beyond anything most tradesmen visualize now. One of our largest growers in the seed growing industry has already notified the trade of a 35% cut in acreage for the 1943 growing season. We strongly advise our customers NOT to buy more seed than you can use BUT BE SURE OF YOUR SEASONS NEEDS JUST AS EARLY AS YOU CAN. Order early. We'll do our very best to serve you.

DELPHINIUM SEEDS

PACIFIC GIANT

Ever since their introduction, seeds of these Pacific Hybrid Delphiniums have been scarce. This has been due partly to unseasonable weather in the seed producing areas but mostly to great demand. We have a modest stock now available but suggest early ordering of your requirements while selections are complete.

While fall planting is widely practiced, we are experiencing better results by planting these in the Spring as soon as the soil can be worked and growing them until late summer before transplanting. Here planting is best in early April.

In most varieties these trade packets will continue to contain about enough seed to produce 1,000 plants. Perennial Seeds

The Perennial seeds offered here are those of greatest value to the florist for use as cut flower plants or plants to be retailed. This group of seed is very complete considering scarcities existing because of the war and on many items our supply is limited to modest quantities. Regardless of whether we supply you or you obtain this stock from other sources it is advisable to fill your needs early.

We suggest the trial of an early spring planting of these varieties for material to be transplanted next Fall. We find plantings made as soon as the ground can be worked, in most cases will give excellent plants for your next Spring sale season and it is a most satisfactory way to build up stock.

PANSY SEEDS AND PLANTS

These are our greatest specialty. It is with regret that we notify our many spring customers that our 1942-43 season crop of Pansy plants are completely exhausted. It will be October 1st. before additional stock of these will be available and we hope we may serve you then.

In Pansy seeds we can supply a good selection. If you would like to cover your requirements before prices advance— and it is inevitable that we shall have to advance prices on several sorts this year— you may order up to May 15th., at the prices quoted in our issue of January 2nd. Delivery on such advance orders will be made at any date you wish up to August 1st. After May 15th., 1943 growing season prices will apply and on several items these must be somewhat higher.
